MLJ: To write a diary entry from the perspective of a character.

Write a diary entry from the perspective of Ruskin the evening after his rehearsal for the hero role.

Include your thoughts and feelings on:

- Mr Lace revealing the dragon.
- Putting your hand up to say you want to be the hero.
- The class laughing at you because you are small next to the dragon.
- Watching the class cheer at Elvis' performance.

Success Criteria:

- Written in first person from the perspective of Ruskin.
- Full punctuation, including capital letters and full stops.
- Descriptions of your thoughts and feelings.

Things that can help you:

- Your role on the wall from yesterday.
- Previous work on diary entries.
